SHELL

Basins and baths from the SHELL collection, designed by Pawlak & Stawarski Studio, embody a modern elliptical form that gently tapers towards the base. Their striking silhouette, with perfectly balanced proportions, offers a sophisticated and decorative accent to elevate any bathroom interior.

MONOLITHIC FORM

The minimalist shapes have a lightweight yet solid look, creating an effect of monoliths carved from rock. The skilfully contoured silhouette, meticulously finished edges and a matching waste cover create a form of ideal proportions and contemporary character.

SHELL

"When designing the SHELL collection, we were keen to find ideal proportions and introduce subtle, harmonious lines. Our aim was to create a sculpted form for the bathroom space that would also be incredibly comfortable to use".

Bartłomiej Pawlak & Łukasz Stawarski

IN FULL COMFORT

The shape of the bath is a modern interpretation of the classic ellipse, with a streamlined interior that supports a comfortable bathing position. Its wide base provides ample space, inviting shared moments of relaxation.

SHELL

The low-set design of SHELL bath is ideal for bathing children and makes getting in and out much easier, while still offering an optimal depth for an indulgent, soothing experience.

POLISH DOLOMITE ROCK

The basins and baths are made of an innovative composite material, whose main component is Polish dolomite rock. The advanced production technology guarantees flawless execution of every detail while ensuring remarkable durability.

SHELL

The composite material absorbs heat from the air and water, maintaining the optimum temperature for a long time, which, combined with a surface that is smooth and pleasant to the touch, ensures unparalleled comfort of use.

The satin finish of the baths and basins evokes the look and feel of smooth stone, that has been polished over time by flowing water.

The product surface is impeccably smooth and perfectly even, with dimensions that guarantee full compliance with technical drawings.

The surface is free from any ruptures or micro-openings, preventing bacterial growth and making the product very easy to clean.

The composite material is characterised by exceptional durability and stability and is resistant to damage, extreme temperatures and loads.

The surface of baths and basins feels warm to the touch and retains heat exceptionally well, enhancing user comfort and saving energy.

The composite material provides outstanding acoustic absorption, effectively reducing the sound of water as it falls and hits the surface.

The collection's extensive selection of sizes and finishes allows for the creation of a bathroom with a unique character, perfectly tailored to individual design preferences.

The baths and basins are available in classic white, deep black, subtle grey and a warm shade of beige. The carefully selected colour palette of the collection perfectly complements both traditional interiors and modern spaces.
